How to Use the Decision-Tool Suite in Academic Teaching

Prof. Ulrich Hommel, PhD
European Business School

Abstract

The presentation will outline the various options for using the Palisade software in the class room. First of all, participants will receive insights on how to use the software for courses in corporate risk management as well as investment valuation and how these can be used as anchor points to tie in course offerings from other functional fields of management science. Second, the presentation will provide recommendations based on first-hand experience how the switch to software-enhanced teaching can become a true learning experience for students.

Finally, participants will be given examples how the use of the software can also be tied in managing a business school's corporate relations, either on the basis of student consultancy projects or as part of an institution's executive education activities.
